

The best way to keep horses performing consistently at their best is by detecting problems earlier. Detecting problems earlier requires instant access to your veterinary team.

GETSOUND™ provides the world's equestrians with immediate access to equine health practitioners, without the usual investments of energy, time, or money. Anytime. Anywhere.

By applying innovative technology in video review, we give equestrians the digital tools needed to proactively manage their horse's health and performance... without having to make a veterinary appointment.

At GETSOUND™, we connect you to expert veterinary attention...fast. Because we want you to spend less time dealing with issues, and more time in the saddle where you belong.
